CLEMENCEAU'S LIFE FREE DIPHThERIA IS THREATENED CLINIC THURSDAY

Police Protection Given Noted Frenchman After He Receives Letter Signed "A World War Veteran."

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 22.—A death threat was received through the mails today by Georges Clemenceau, French premier, who delivered his first American address last night at the Metropolitan Opera House.

The letter, which was signed "A World War Veteran," was turned over to the police.

Extra police protection was immediately given to M. Clemenceau. When he went to the New York Chamber of Commerce this afternoon he was accompanied by about 100 motorcycle policemen instead of the two or three who had hitherto accompanied him when he went out in the street.

"Don't you dare to be saying too much about our country and Germany. If you don't heed our orders, you will hear bullets flying about your head."

"We are sick of you politicians poisoning the minds of our people."

A World War Veteran.

Clemenceau was not disturbed by the threat against his life. During his long career in public life he had been threatened many times and once a would-be assassin wounded him.

CRIPPLED HIGH SCHOOL SQUAD RESUMES WORK

David Throught With High School Football.

Kingston High School football warriors engaged in their first practice session since the Binghamton game Tuesday evening and despite the fact that the team is in poor condition physically they managed to put a good deal of pep into their work.

It seems practically certain that Captain Davis has played his last game for Kingston High School as the injuries which he sustained at Binghamton were of such a nature that it would be folly for him to attempt to get in any more games this season. The rest of the squad are in fairly good condition and expect to give a good account of themselves against Stuyvesant High School the champions of New York city.

TELEPHONE MOVIE WITH REAL THING

Combination of Comedy, Concert and Demonstration of How "Central" Handles Various Combinations of Trouble Will Be Given in High School Auditorium.

Something new and unusual in the way of demonstration will be given on Friday evening, November 24, at 8 o'clock, in the High School Auditorium when the audience will be given an intimate insight into the workings of a telephone central office, through the courtesy of the New York Telephone Company.

The demonstration will be given by employees of the Telephone Company.

The program includes musical numbers by telephone workers, a Harold Lloyd motion picture comedy, a special motion picture showing the vastness of the telephone industry, and a demonstration of actual telephone central office operation by young women taken from the telephone company's ranks.

A. L. Harter, local manager of the Telephone Company, will preside over the demonstration.

The central office operating feature of the program will be conducted on an especially built piece of apparatus in which portions of switchboards are exactly duplicated so that the spectators can see the entire progress of a telephone call from one instrument to another. The purpose of the demonstration is to bring telephone users in closer touch with the inside story of telephone operation.

There will be no charge for the demonstration and the public is cordially invited.

Following finding of the body, Presnuk was believed to be a suicide but authorities later declared that a wound on the back of his skull and conditions in the hanging of the body had decided them that a murder had been committed.

WATERLOO PEOPLE SHIVER FOR LACK OF COAL

Waterloo, N. Y., Nov. 22.—With real winter weather prevailing in Waterloo for the past 48 hours, there was suffering today because of the scarcity of coal.

No coal of the small size was to be had at any of the local dealers. One concern could supply hard coal, only in the large size suitable for large steam boilers, while another had a small quantity of soft coal. It is almost impossible to secure cord wood of stove length.

LECTURES TO VOCATIONAL CLUB

At the meeting of the Hudson Valley Vocational Club which was held at the high school last Saturday afternoon an address was given by A. R. Leighton of this city who at the present time is connected with the Kingston Securities Company and for quite a number of years has been prominent in the industrial life of the city. His address in full as taken down by students of the shorthand department of the high school is as follows:

By organization with part-time work you have opportunity to deal directly with the children. I believe you have something to offer the program this afternoon about this. But I believe the students should be able to drive a nail, handle a saw and use a screw driver, not only because there is a certain economic value, to sharpen a pair of scissors and put in a new washer, but because it gives them an idea that when work is done right he must do it himself and not have someone else do it for him. There are three things in which a boy finds most difficulty. I will mention first a lack of intelligence and intelligent intellect. An employer asked a boy to wrap up a package and figure out how much it would cost to send it. The boy used about three times as much paper as he needed and made a very clumsy looking package. The postage was eight cents. The employer then called in another boy and asked him to do the same thing. The second boy took about a third of the paper that the first boy had taken and made a very neat package. The postage was four cents. That is a lack of intelligent intellect in the simplest kind of a problem. I can't tell you how to teach this, but you must tell them to think. Teach them trustworthiness and to be honest, two things that are not mere carelessness. I dictated a letter once, and cautioned the stenographer, a young man, to make sure that it would be in New York the next morning. The next morning the letter came back without a stamp on it. The stenographer had forgotten to put one on it. I called the young man in and told him what had happened. I said to put a stamp on it and take it to the post office. He said there was a stamp on the package and showed me the hardened glue. I sort of apologized to him then. After a while one of my clerks came to me and said, "I think I ought to tell you about something." She then told me that the young man had gone into the other room, put a stamp on it and pulled it off again. When the glue hardened, he showed it to me and said there was a stamp on it. When an employer can't trust an employee, he doesn't want him around. Trustworthiness must be inculcated. You must penalize everything. Take a picture out of nature. See that the penalty follows the crime. The other point is the lack of responsibility. The students do not appreciate the responsibility of carrying the instructions out to the conclusion. I should say that the way to bring this home to the average young man is to give him work. When he steals time he is stealing your time. He does not realize that these things come back to the employer in dollars and cents, not only in a broken purse but in a costly delay. Actual examination explains the items that enter and raise the cost. The clerks forget that there is a thing as overhead. Some firms have as much as forty per cent in overhead. The clerk forgets that there is a great amount of overhead. A young man was discussing this subject. He thought that a certain man ought to have more money. He said, "Fortunately you do not have to worry about it." I said to him, "If I should tell you that a thousand dollar note of mine was destroyed I think you would not want to protest." They do not realize the importance of the little lapses that go to reduce their own efficiency. The reading of history along those lines will do a world of good. Dr. William T. Harris says that education is always two fold. He calls it by authority an insight. Education is what you get from research and actual experience, which is just as necessary. Now, there are a certain number of things that a man must get by research. I think it would be a good idea if someone would formulate a catechism of economic life. When I was a boy I was obliged to commit to memory a catechism. I did not understand it but today if someone would ask me I could tell it word for word. I looked up the meaning of the words I did not understand. It would be a good thing if someone could come forward and do this but it is probably impossible today with all the isms. If someone could make a catechism in plain words of the social and economic law, and teach that to the young ones, the earlier the better. In years after they will see that they can produce wealth only from the earth and labor. They can't have their hours lowered. They can't have five hours a day and three days a week and ten dollars a day. And some men thought that was practical. With no counteract this can be brought out. Fortunately that comes to the part time school. I want to say that some days I go around through our educational departments. About sixty per cent of you boys were in the trades, about twelve per cent were in some one-schooled profession and three per cent were superintendents, foremen, etc. It is not very good to make every boy believe that he is an Abraham Lincoln. He should live to his capacity. You know that there are all grades of intellect in all boys. It seems to me a grievous mistake to encourage a youth to develop an ambition which he can never successfully fulfill. I don't believe in making a man do a thing against nature's obstacles. You can't say a boy is cut out to be a bookkeeper or anything else and expect that to develop. But you can tell him he has an attitude to trades or if he is a mechanic that will develop. Just the same he has natural talents that ought to be brought out.

Patented Brace Plate
perfects emergency
brakes for Fords

This Brace Plate is a patented feature—found only on Rusco Emergency Brakes. It makes possible for the first time the successful use on Fords of the type of brake used on big cars, namely, the steel expanding band type.

When you pull up this Rusco emergency, the cams which expand the brake bands jam every ounce of braking power against the brake drums. But if you didn't have the Rusco patented Brace Plates, the brake drums wouldn't get half the braking power, because one end of the brake bands would buckle under the cams and not touch the brake drums at all. That Brace Plate is a mighty important thing.

Rusco Emergency Brakes at $2.50 with the patented Brace Plates, and with Rusco Brake Lining, are easy to install; dependable; give longer service; save the foot brake; are easy to reline; and safe in emergencies. Buy them of your garage-man or accessory dealer today.

Rusco Products for all cars

Rusco Brake Lining wears longer and it will not slip in wet weather. A Rusco Tow Line is strong as steel cable, compact as an inner tube. Rusco Clutch Facings engage very smoothly.

Rusco Fan Belts are safe and economical for the cooling system. Rusco Hood Lacing silences many a squeak. Rusco Tire Straps stay permanently jet black, and never lose tires.

A Rusco TABBUCKLER Strap is made in a few moments for any purpose. The Rusco (Denonco) Non-Chatter Band for Fords reduces chatter and makes replacement of Rusco Ford Transmission Lining a simple matter.

F&D CIGARS
HANDMADE
FULL HAVANA FILLED

New York, gave the following address, also taken down by the students of the shorthand department of the high school, which held the attention of his listeners from first to last.

I just came into Kingston from a meeting of this kind in White Plains where the representation was not nearly as well as it is here today. I see you have a great interest in home making education, commercial education and part time education. I am very glad to be here today. One of the reasons why I am glad is because I had the opportunity to hear Mr. Leighton.

I believe our program of education is more of a protest against the familiar methods. The world is calling on young boys to do things effectively, to take the place of those who leave—and to take their place in life in the right sort of fashion. We fall to give the real education. That is why we are having the part time schools.

What is in the way of state-wide interest? We held our first meeting in Troy, on the important employe concerns and on the important labor bodies. The unanimous opinion was that there is a need of the old apprenticeship ways, that is, a trader takes a boy and teaches him his trade. Business men are complaining of the same thing.

We are commencing to feel that the teachers are taking it too complacently. We are commencing to go a certain way and these are not the sort of things that are going to train our boys the industrial and commercial work. We need to square the shoulders and do something, because it is quite certain that we have not sold the child to the community at large. They are still asking what it is all about. Some employer in every community will ask "What can you do with a boy at four hours a week?" These are gone hopes.

What is back of the part time school? What is it that we are trying to put across? There are three things that we are standing for. We are trying to do something to prepare children better along health lines. We are trying to do something in vocational guidance, to find out what kind of work is best for each child, and to better prepare them. And to teach the social and political things of life. Better health means more money and happiness, better ability to fit in the occupation of the things you choose, a better understanding of the social and practical institutions. They are going to be more fitted. That whole natural scheme will work out better when they understand what it is all about. You have to make them believe that they are being paid enough.

What can we do to improve the health? I hope you get in touch with your school nurse and find out about the health of the children. Our health department tells us that there is no superintendency that will be unwilling to cooperate with you. Have you a child that has diseased tonsils or poor eyes? Send them to some hospital for treatment. We need to do a great deal more than we have been doing in this kind of work.

What can we do for the vocational guidance? If we could get a test to discover how many girls are fitted to do work in that particular field, we would be doing a great thing. We can find out the lines of work for which they are fitted. If we find a girl or boy we can give for that boy or girl organized training which will advance their knowledge in that occupation. A boy is gaining a half day out of each week in months afterwards.

What can we do to train our young boys too in the way of economics and history? What can we give them for that knowledge? The best way to do it is in practical methods. We need to have them understand the value of large insurance. We need to teach the simple institutions of practical economy. This will bring them to a clear understanding of how our country came to be what it is. Every school method should have some proper system of follow-up work and preliminary work. Every teacher should do this, otherwise there is very little use in giving a vocational guidance course and vocational training work. Help the students get into the work and help them stay there.

The things that we are trying for are health, education, vocational guidance and vocational education. I think Mr. ——— has placed in your hands a paper which will illustrate the points that I will bring out, namely, the three heads, industrial work, home making work and commercial work, in unit lessons. Your year's work would include thirty-six of these lessons. It is essential in carpentry work that you put out thirty-six of these points. The unit instruction is good in supplementing the teacher's work, but it is not necessary.

You must help the people to make use of spare time. There was a list of the hundred best books for boys and for girls. It was in the New York Herald. In your English work show the writing out of simple drafts and filling out of blanks, the practical phases of life. These are the situations that they meet. The subject should have a practical value of the things that actually happen.

We have a good deal of help that we need to give you. We have something for commercial industrial and vocational. We have a list of the material for English, science and history. These unit lessons are coming out as rapidly as we can get them out. We have a fine set of courses in carpentry work and commercial work. The final thing I want to say is the personal way we get hold of the boys and girls. We must give them the feeling that they want to come to school. We must have personal contact with the young people we come in contact with.

Brocade in Crepe and Satin is in the Midway List.

Shimmering Weaves Have Supplanted Adapted to Draperies That Distinguish Straight Silhouettes.

It is quite certain that some lovely costumes will be introduced during the season for the sumptuous fabrics now in vogue cannot fail to prove an inspiration to the designers at home and abroad, observes a fashion authority.

For the last two seasons there has been an insistent demand for soft, clinging draperies. There was an infinite variety of black crepes and later, on, or, to be perfectly accurate, this summer, there was a transforming of a somber world into a flower garden. This reaction from the dull black crepe to the more elaborate and colorful materials of the moment is now seen in the increasing enthusiasm for the blistered silks which are so favored in Paris and which promise to be even more so during the present season. Colors for day-time may be subdued for the more formal winter modes, but the vogue for figured fabrics is steadily increasing.

Crepe de chine will continue to hold the foremost position among winter fabrics, but the crepes with dull surfaces, which have hitherto been supreme, have now yielded first place to the lustrous varieties. These shimmering weaves possess a suppleness perfectly adapted to the draperies that distinguish the straight silhouette of today.

Brocades in crepes and satins in brilliant colors are expected to figure prominently on the modish list.

Lace, especially the metal patterns, is sure to be much in evidence this winter. These metal laces are produced in new and interesting ways. For example, gold and silver threads may be combined, and then the woven threads dyed any color, so that the silk thread takes the tint and gives tone to the whole tissue. This gives a fragile effect with a mere hint of color, interwoven with the metallic threads. Then there is a new trimming lace in either gold or silver—in which a fine braid is used to form great motifs of leaves which are joined together in the most exquisite patterns. Combined with the rather dull gold or silver leaves made of solid braiding is a solid, bright gold flower, the metal thread being used in an effect which is called in French mosses and which is, indeed, only mossy in character.

TRIMMED WITH MONKEY FUR

Black matelasse makes an up-to-the-minute jacket. The monkey fur trimming adds a note of interest.

KNITTED FROCKS FOR GIRLS

Novelty in Weave and Unusual Color Blendings Feature Garments for Little Misses.

Knitted fabrics promise to be exceedingly good for little girls' autumn and winter frocks, and some of them show decided novelty in weave, and unusual color blendings. Naturally, for children's wear, some firmness of weave is necessary, and this need is met in a variety of new materials that have all the softness that could be desired, in combination with a certain sturdiness of texture.

Many frocks developed in such materials are very simply trimmed with wool embroidery and wool cord; for the materials as often as not show some novelty of weave, or a stripe, or even a silk embroidered dot in contrasting color; so a great deal of trimming is neither appropriate nor necessary.

Tam o' Shanter.

A new version of the always becoming draped hat on Tam o' Shanter lines is displayed in a particularly flattering model of brilliant steel-blue velvet with an ornament of silver.

say to you that I read with a great in the old days, in the saloons, namely, beer. The one tactic which interests us most just now, is that there is an effort to work "bonus" sentiment, taken into consideration in the recent that is seeking the passage of a bill election, as it related itself to the "wet" and "dry" issue. When we consider that money may be raised to take time to think fairly our feet pay a soldier's bonus. We are wondering if such people usually come back to earth, if it may be only to touch the higher mountains and their snow capped summits. Some newspapers, and some individuals, have not gotten even near enough back to earth to touch these high summits, but we are glad to see you back.

We are watching, with the keenest interest, the tactics of those who are interested in securing the legalization of the liquor business single enemy that has done them in again, for whatever name may be jury. I do not profess to know how attached to it, or whatever per cents many there might be that would rebel might be suggested, it will be really against any such method of raising the liquor business: it will money for such use, but I do know mean also the return of the saloons, in there are some, and for the sake of some form, for that which these I am taking—this occasion to mean to be the greatest surface do think out loud. May God hasten the day to legalize is that which was sold, day when we will stop to think sober-

The masquerade ball given under the auspices of the Sons and Daughters of Liberty in Pythian Hall

Tuesday evening, was a complete success in every detail. The large crowd was masked in all kinds of unique costumes from the ridiculous to the sublime. Dancing commenced at 8 o'clock and no one was allowed on the floor unless masked. Balle's orchestra furnished excellent music. At 10 o'clock the grand march started, led by members of the order, all masqueraders forming in line. Three gentlemen from out of town awarded the prizes to the nicest dressed lady and the most comical dressed man. The winners were Miss Florence Diehl of Kingston and Clarence Craig of Port Ewen. A most beautiful tableau was presented emblematic of the principles of the patriotic order with Old Glory illuminated. Miss Edith Vinecot represented Columbia and Henry Neher Uncle Sam. There was a large number of people present from Kingston, Connelly, Escopus, Union Center and Saugerties. A great many people were heard to remark the ball was the best ever had in Port Ewen.

Nov. 22, 1912.—Death of Mrs. John Dunn on Sycamore street. William Wright of Saugerties died at Benedictine Hospital.

MUCH INTEREST IN LABOR FAIR

Miss Doyle Leads in Pearl Popularity Contest and Raymond Wells in Race for Bicycle.

Tuesday evening at Maan's Hall on lower Broadway a large crowd again was in attendance at the fair and dance carnival being held under the auspices of the Central Trades and Labor Council. Balfe's Orchestra and the Imperial Orchestra are engaged to furnish music during the fair. Balfe's musicians played Monday evening and they will again perform on Thursday and Saturday evenings. The Imperial Orchestra will play the other nights.

A great amount of interest is being taken in the Pearl Popularity Contest and a large number of votes were handed in Tuesday evening. Miss Doyle is leading with 126, the next best is Miss Gardner with 100 votes.

In the boys' bicycle contest, Raymond Wells is in the lead with Arthur Hazen Bush a close second. The remainder of the contestants have a good chance and it is supposed that their votes are being kept under cover.

For the remainder of the week the committee states that they will have added attractions, which should please both the young and the old. A big feature of each evening's performance is that all local talent is performing.

Why Called Achilles' Tendon.

The Achilles' tendon is a strong sinew running along the heel to the calf of the leg.

A post-Homeric story is that Thetis took her son Achilles by one of his heels, and dipped him in the River Styx to make him invulnerable. The water washed every part of his body, except the heel covered by his mother's hand. It was on this vulnerable point that the hero was slain in battle. And the sinew of the heel is called, in consequence, tendo Achilles.

The vulnerable or weak point in a person's or a nation's character also is often referred to as the heel of Achilles.

Here are the leading figures in the Valparaiso (Ind.) University "campus triangle," in which Mrs. Anna M. Gant, wife of Professor P. A. Gant, formerly of the university, is charged by Mrs. Blanche Huston, 17-year-old wife of Ernest Huston, with being the college vamp.

A TEST OF MERIT.

"The Centipede" Young People's Most Ambitious Play.

The few who have been privileged to attend a rehearsal of "The Centipede" regard the comedy as the most ambitious play the young people have yet attempted at any of their entertainments given in St. John's parish house. Though the comedy element is well supplied by "Drusilla," the stuttering maid, "Cuthbert Bray," the English fop—sometimes known as the "donkey"—and "Billy Sparks," the glib stage manager, an authority on stagecraft, there are tense moments in the play which require careful handling, even from a professional. Miss Nellie Woolsey is to play "Mrs. Oberly," who's vindictiveness against her poor relations leads to startling results. Miss Woolsey's performance as "Dodo" in "The Hoodoo," is still remembered. Miss Mary Lawrence will appear in an entirely new role, quite different from her "Mrs. Grandon" or "Patty" in "Mr. Bob." The rehearsal of "The Flapper's Strategy" is said to be a scream.

AIR ADVERTISEMENTS

"Well," said the Fairy Queen, "there is only one item sent in to the Nature and News this time, and that is from Tad, the Black Cat."

"What is that?" asked the other Fairies.

"Tad," said the Fairy Queen, "sent in an announcement and asked us if we'd please publish it as he would be glad to have as many see it as possible."

"What was the announcement?" the other Fairies asked.

"It was this," said the Fairy Queen, as she took forth a piece of paper upon which in strange sprawling words was written:

"Tad, the Black Cat, is giving an At Home Tuesday Evening in the Alley. It is his second birthday. All those who wish to bring him birthday presents may care for his list of suggestions, which is as follows:

"Milk, Cream, Sausage, Liver, and all other delicacies."

"The Fairies all laughed after they had read this. No one but a Fairy could have read such strange writing as Tad wrote!"

"I believe Mr. Sun and Mr. Moon want to talk to us this afternoon. They're both to be in the sky at the same time, you know, today, and they're something most especially important they want to tell us."

At that moment the Fairy Queen looked up and there she saw Mr. Moon smiling. Mr. Sun, of course, was shining brightly.

She had been waiting to see Mr. Moon.

"You had something to say to us today," she asked.

"Ah, yes, Fairy Queen," said Mr. Moon. "Now you know I've looked down at signboards and I've seen big signs. I've been told by Midgie Moon

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY

Coconut is a good food for most people whose digestion is in good working order, but for small children it should be given very seldom. If at all. A bit of coconut added to a salad, a dish of sliced oranges, a pudding sauce and a cake icing or filling adds much to both its appearance and flavor.

If you have never tried a small amount of coconut with a salmon salad you will have something to look forward to. Sprinkled over the top of cup custards, or added to a custard pie just before going into the oven, makes a very dainty dish of an otherwise ordinary one. A half-cupful stirred into the gingerbread, or mixed with apple and celery, with a bit of red pepper, for a salad, makes a variety.

Coconut Orange Pudding.—Take one-half cupful of bread crumbs, one-quarter of a cupful of milk, one-third of a cupful of orange juice, three tablespoonsful of sugar, one-half cupful of coconut, one tablespoonful of vanilla and one egg. Mix the bread, milk, sugar and orange juice with the beaten yolk. Beat the white until stiff and fold it in. Flavor with vanilla or with the grated rind of the orange; bake in small molds set in hot water. Serve with orange sauce. Coconut biscuits are very dainty for tea; add a half-cupful of coconut to a drop of biscuit dough.

Coconut Duchess Potatoes.—Take three cupfuls of hot mashed potatoes, three egg yolks, six tablespoonsful of milk, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt and the three egg whites, with one-half cupful of coconut. Add the egg yolks, beaten, to the potato; the other ingredients in order given, and finish with the coconut and egg whites folded in lightly. Bake until firm in a well-greased baking dish set in hot water. Serve from the baking dish.

Gloucester Club Sandwich.—Toast two slices of bread on one side and cut into triangles. Spread each untoasted side with anchovy paste, mixed with salad dressing, then add a lettuce leaf, a layer of tuna fish and two slices of bacon and two slices of fresh tomato; spread with salad dressing.

"GOOD QUEEN LI"

Reckoning Occasion of Royalty's Visit to Washington.

Next of Hawaiian Dynasty Came to the Capital to Seek Recognition of Her Prerogatives.

Official Washington had put on her very best clothes and made ready to give royal welcome to a royal guest. True, this visitor no longer occupied a throne, nor was she even likely to. She did not even move in the court circle, she was the court circle, and although that august body had moved around until it had reached its last lim, still, by nature of its former status, it was deserving of attention.

This visitor was the last of the Hawaiian dynasty, Queen Liliuokalani, popularly known as this country as Queen Li. writes Margaret Bell in the Boston Globe. She was an imposing looking woman, not exactly handsome, as we understand the term, but of such obvious strength of character as to rally respect to her standard wherever she went. This particular visit to Washington was for the purpose of interesting congress in her affairs. Being no longer a queen with royal rights, she looked to this country to reimburse her for her sacrifices.

Queen Li's story is unique. When an infant she was given by her parents to another chieftain, a custom long fostered among Hawaiian royalty, because this exchange of children was supposed to promote good fellowship among the different tribes and harmony throughout the islands.

At the age of four she was sent to boarding school, where she learned to speak English and think Christian. She spent all of her childhood and some of her young womanhood in school, and when she was twenty-four married an American, John Dominis, the son of a sea captain.

She had twenty-nine years' comparative freedom; then her real troubles began. Her brother, the king, dying, Liliuokalani became queen, but without the pomp and grandeur which usually accompany such social elevation. "Before I had time to collect myself," she said, "a trap was sprung on me by the wild hosts with whom I was surrounded." A document was thrust before her by the cabinet, greatly restricting her power. To this she objected, and the storm broke.

Queen Li managed to keep her throne for two years. During that time her husband died and she found herself deprived of a very vital moral prop. The organization of a provisional government in 1893, under Sanford E. Dole, brought about her abdication and gave the islands one of the best administrations in their whole history.

Ambitions began to stir within Liliuokalani, however, and urged her to plot to regain her throne. But there were enemies around her, and her ambitions were learned, with the result that Queen Li was thrown into prison. That settled it. In eight days she renounced forever all claims to the throne. The government evidently did not place implicit trust in her, for although she was released from prison she was kept under close surveillance in her own palace for practically a year. Then on New Year's day, 1900, she was allowed full freedom, after signing a paper in which she declared her intention henceforth to live in absolute privacy and to avoid even the appearance of being concerned in public affairs.

The remaining years of her life were marked by not the slightest deviation from this promise. She allied herself with no party and kept her political opinions to herself. She devoted her self to the writing of songs in her native tongue and travelling extensively in this country.

On November 11, 1917, while other thrones were breaking, she passed away at the age of seventy-nine.

Interrupted.
My employer is a golf enthusiast, and when he has played a good game he never fails to give the office full particulars, with demonstrations, as he keeps his clubs downtown.

One afternoon he left about four o'clock. Directly after I dragged out his clubs. Swinging the bag to my shoulder I advanced to the center of the large room. The force ceased working and watched me. I pulled out a stick, dropped a ball to the floor, and swung at it.

"Gee," I commanded, "on the greatest golf performer who ever missed a ball. Last week at Hillsdale I went around in 150, and I will now—"
The door slammed behind me. He had returned.—Chicago Tribune.

Steeplejacks Defy Death.
A wager of $5 has inspired four steeplejacks, who have been repairing one of the tallest chimney stacks in the Menden bridge district of York-shire to extraordinary feats, according to the London Westminster Gazette.

They hoisted a bicycle to the top, and on a wooden platform one of their number balanced himself on the saddle, while a second sat straddle-legged on his shoulders with outstretched arms. Two other thrilling feats were performed. One of the steeplejacks stood erect on a narrow iron spike on the top of the chimney. Then he seized the topmost stave of a ladder, raised his legs to the sky and balanced himself for a few seconds on his hands as lightly as if he were on parallel bars on the ground. Thousands of spectators were thrilled by these extraordinary feats.

End of School Courtship.
One day I was going home from school with my bean and his sister. On the way he told me he didn't want me to go home with his sister because was so ugly I would scare his mother. My love ended then and there.—Chicago Journal.

TWO DOORS TO MAN'S MIND

Explaining Why All of Us Cannot Awaken From Sleep to Instant Action.

Some of us wake up instantly, but most of us have to lie for some time before we are really awake. How quickly can you wake up?

It has nothing to do with being a hero or a strong man, neither has it anything to do with laziness or being tired the night before.

It all depends on our minds. Every one of us has got two distinct minds, the front mind with which we do our ordinary daytime thinking, and the back mind which comes into action only in the hours of sleep.

Between the two minds lies a door. When you go to sleep you pass into your night mind, when you wake up you step through the door into your day mind, and close the door behind you.

But with a great many of us this door between our two minds has worked a little loose.

The hinges of that door work slowly; it doesn't slam, and through it float out the broken remnants of your dream in hopeless confusion with the real life of the new day's work.

Then gradually, with an effort, you manage to pull yourself out of the fog and push the dream things back through the door. Then at last you are awake.

This difficulty of waking varies with your circumstances. If something pleasant is going to happen to you in the coming day you can wake up comparatively easily. Your real self is anxious to be finished with the dream world, to shut the door, and to wake to your good fortune.

But when you are troubled, or expecting worry, your dream self invests your sleeping hours with a kindly mantle of romance to make up for the worries of the day. You are loth to leave that pleasant land of dreams, and consequently wake up slowly.

Coffee Taste Improves.

Americans are becoming coffee connoisseurs. Coffee is no longer just coffee. It must now have bouquet, body and sufficient kick to satisfy those who like it strong. Or the heavy body and the caffeine content must be all but missing, while the aroma remains high and fine, for those who like it weak.

So sophisticated is the taste of the United States becoming, says the New York Sun, that cheap coffee is wanted less than ever before, and high-grade coffee that was previously sent to Europe is reaching our ports at an unprecedented rate.

There has been nothing less than a real revolution in the notion of the public as to what good coffee is. As a result coffee beans are sorted more carefully than ever before, and mild coffees with a high, clear flavor are being increasingly shipped North.

Most of the mild coffees of the trade come from the countries of the Gulf Coast, especially Colombia and Yene-

Authorities credit the roasters and the distributors with much of the responsibility for changing the taste of the public. State coffee beans are now rarely sold, and the general public has a chance to know what fresh coffee tastes like. This was not so a generation ago.

Airplane Landing.

A recent invention permits the conventional landing gear with rubber-tired wheels to be dropped from a plane in flight, the subsequent landing being effected with a pair of skids mounted beneath the plane, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The object is to eliminate the weight and wind resistance of the usual landing gear and to make possible landing in a short space and on rough ground. Landing on water is safer with skids than with the wheels, because of the lowered center of gravity, which reduces the tendency to turn the machine over on its end, the arrangement of shock absorbers, some of which are double-acting, interposed between the skids and the body of the plane, is one of the most important features. In this design the propeller blades must be horizontal when making a landing.

Britain's Shipbuilding.

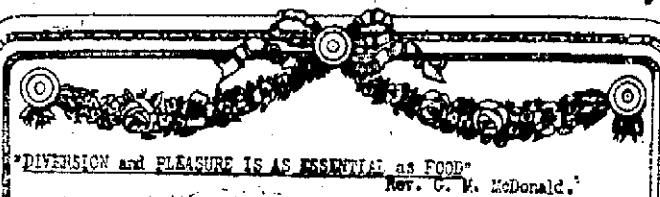

Shipbuilding at cost is said to be the basis on which the British yards are willing to work, in order to get orders. British owners of vessels, however, apparently do not find the offer so attractive as it sounds, for they declare that before they can place many orders for new steamers the cost of building must come down by 50 per cent. Seventy-five per cent of England's shipbuilding capacity is idle. Prospects seem to be brightening, however, for it is reported that inquiries which precede contracts for new boats are increasing.—The Nation's Business.

Tribute to "King Woman."

Later in the evening, she meant to tell her father all about what brother had said but, not being able to remember all the words, she told him that the King Woman had been good to Columbus.

Dear Friends and Patrons:—

It is with pleasure and pride I again announce the annual engagement of THE YUKON-ROCK CO. in your City next week.

We do not come as strangers, but as old friends with the feeling that we are always welcome.

This year the organization is better than ever. Having just finished a run of five months in Johnston, Pa., where we produced twenty of Broadway's dramatic hits to enormous business. Despite deplorable industrial conditions, the average weekly attendance was over 10,000 people.

Next Monday night we begin our engagement with "THE BROKEN WING" which ran for an entire season at the 48th Street Theatre, N. Y. Truly a great play staged by us in an artistic manner, both from a scenic and costume standpoint.

Scheduled for Tuesday is "THE NIGHTCAP" by Guy Bolton, author of the well known successes, "Sally," "Tangerine" and "Adam and Eva." "The Nightcap" is Mr. Bolton's masterpiece.

We have taken the six biggest hits of the twenty plays produced in Johnston for presentation here next week and we not only solicit your patronage, but invite your criticism and comparison with the original New York productions.

Sincerely Yours,

W. A. H. H. H.

TO DRAFT A NEW BUS ORDINANCE

Chief of Police Wood and Attorney Frank W. Brooks Give Aldermen Some Wholesome Advice—Committee of Seven Appointed—Point Trolley Service.

The question of amending or drafting a new bus ordinance was discussed at a special meeting of the common council held Tuesday night which was attended by the bus owners, Chief of Police J. Allan Wood and Corporation Counsel Walter N. Gill. At the close of the session Alderman Cashman, who presided in the absence of Alderman Dittus, appointed Aldermen Martin, Van Wageningen, Belcher, Mann, Macholdt, Ryan and Buchholz, a committee of seven from the common council to confer with Mayor Crane, Corporation Counsel Gill and Chief of Police Wood regarding the matter and report back at the December session.

Chief of Police Wood when asked to speak said that he believed the council should draft a new ordinance and he also believed that there would not be so much trouble over bus lines if the bus owners would cooperate with the city.

Attorney Frank W. Brooks speaking as a citizen said that the present ordinance was worthless and advised the council to take time and prepare an ordinance that would not only hold water but had teeth in it. He believed that a new ordinance should state the conditions under which a bus line was allowed to operate and then compel the bus lines to live up to it or have the franchise revoked.

During the discussion regarding the bus lines it was stated that Charles Proper, who operates the Housatonic bus line, had sold out three weeks ago and gone to Brooklyn.

Henry Myers, who runs the opposition line to the Proper line, wanted the council to investigate the matter and revoke the Proper license as the new owners had not notified the council of a transfer of the franchise.

Alderman Martin moved that the privilege of the floor be extended to Attorney Brooks, who was attorney for Proper during the long fight he made to obtain the city council's consent to go before the public service commission.

Attorney Brooks wanted to know where the proof was that the bus line had been sold. He called attention to the fact that the local trolley road was owned by residents of the New England states and that Mr. Proper had the right to live in Brooklyn and operate a bus line here if he desired. Mr. Brooks said it was true that Proper had sold his garage but there had been no transfer of the bus franchise to any one and whatever business deal he had made regarding the running of the bus line it should be remembered that he still owned the franchise and was responsible for any accident that might be caused by any of the busses of the line.

Signs Appear Sunday.
Alderman Macholdt, chairman of the railroad committee, reported that the destination signs for the trolley cars had arrived and would be placed in use on all trolley cars on Sunday.

Kingston Point Trolley.
At the last meeting of the common council Alderman Keating of Ponckhockie introduced a resolution calling attention to the poor trolley service being maintained at Kingston Point during the winter months by the trolley road, which was referred to the railroad committee.

Tuesday evening before the council meeting the committee met with Superintendent G. Burton TeBrow of the trolley road, and the matter was thrashed out. Mr. TeBrow assured the committee the trolley road was anxious to please the public.

Traffic between the corner of Delaware avenue and North street over the flats to the entrance to Kingston Point Park was very light, and for that reason the one map trolley had been operating from the Ahmyn street switch on the Strand as far as the corner. If the man in charge saw anyone standing at the park entrance he would run the car down, but otherwise not.

After some talk the committee decided to have the arc light on the hill, near where the Oriental Hotel stood before it was destroyed by fire, removed to a point near the entrance to the park. Mr. TeBrow said that if that light did not furnish enough illumination for the motorman to see anyone waiting at the gate at night that more light would be furnished by the trolley road.

The idea is that with the arc light removed from the hill, where it is not of much use at the present time, and placed at the park entrance that those wishing to take the trolley car by standing near the light could be seen from the corner of Delaware avenue and North street by the operator of the one map trolley.

Martin Objected.
Alderman Martin said that while he had no objection to the placing of a light, he believed that it was up to the trolley road to furnish the light and not the city. He said that the trolley road was getting too many favors.

The motion to adopt the railroad committee's report favoring the placing of the light at the park entrance was amended by Alderman Martin to have the report tabled. The Martin amendment was lost and the report adopted.

South Pine St. Switch.
The railroad committee reported in favor of allowing the Wallkill Valley road to construct a switch across South Pine street to connect with the coal pockets of Paten & Bouton, the coal dealers. The report was adopted.

The council then adjourned.

Might Have Beaten the Train.

A coasteringer who had been to a country town to buy a donkey thought that the best way to take the donkey home to London would be by train. On reaching the station he found that he had only enough money to pay his own fare. Accordingly, he tied the donkey behind the train. When they steamed into Paddington he looked for the animal in vain. After thinking for a few moments, he rushed up to the driver of the train and shouted: "Hi, guv-nor, did you see a light-gray donkey with a white spot on its nose pass yer az yer was comin'?"—London Answers.

At the Movies.

The woman had breathlessly watched the hair-raising escape of the hero in the western thriller, and as the picture closed, leaving the heroine and hero reunited, she breathed a sigh of relief and settled down to enjoy the next number on the program, which was announced as "The Toreador Song from 'Carmen' by Signor Raccenelli." The portly baritone appeared, faultlessly attired, and bowed grandly as he waited for the orchestra to finish the opening bars. In the silence the woman heard a hoarse stage whisper from one of the young wags sitting behind her: "Hey, Joe, there's the guy who shaved you this mornin'!"—Exchange.

Spaniards and Mahogany.

From the day of the earliest settlements in America the Spaniards used mahogany. They utilized it for building ships as early as 1521, and until 1540, when the first allusion to that kind of wood is made by Cortez in connection with further voyages of discovery after the conquest of Mexico.

GOLD SUES CITY FOR $100,000

Saratoga Springs Football Player Who Was Injured in Auto Accident on Railroad Bridge on Albany Avenue Files Damage Claim Against City.

Benjamin Gold, a member of the Saratoga Springs football team who played Kingston high school here recently, has filed a claim for $100,000 damages for personal injuries received in an auto accident on the Ulster & Delaware railroad bridge on Albany avenue at 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, October 28. The claim was brought to the attention of the common council Tuesday evening and referred to the finance committee and Corporation Counsel Walter N. Gill.

Young Gold is represented by the law firm of Knapp & Sherman of Saratoga Springs and in his claim for damages he states that the accident was due to the fact that the city maintained a wooden covering over the water pipe that ran across the bridge which made the road at that point very narrow. At the time of the accident the auto in which Gold and other football players, were riding was going north out of East St. James street and one of the big auto busses of Klemm & Huber, of the Kingston-Saugerties bus line was going north on Albany avenue.

"The big bus takes up considerable space in the road and Charles Ferguson who was driving the Saratoga Springs team in his car got over on his side of the road as far as possible and in doing so his machine struck the wooden covering mentioned. Young Gold claims he will be permanently totally disabled from earning a living and continuing his education for the profession of surgery for which he had prepared." He claims that his condition is such that he will probably require the services of a nurse for the rest of his life.

He claims that the city was negligent in having the road narrow at that point on Albany avenue and in having the water pipes carried over the bridge in the manner in which they are.

Other matters taken up at the council session will be found elsewhere.

Shogun.
"Shogun" is a Japanese term for great general, or commander in chief. For several centuries the shogun class exercised the real power in Japan, though nominally subject to the emperor. However, in 1867 a revolution restored the power of the emperor and the title of shogun was abolished the following year.

BEAR NAMED JERRY HUNTS HONEY FOR ITS MASTER

Old Bill, Tame Bruin's Boss, Sells the Product in the City and Predicts Mild Winter.

Old Bill Leegid, trapper and hunter of the Shawangunk mountains in Ulster county, New York, was in Kingston recently with a bountiful supply of wild honey, which he was disposing of at good prices to the residents. As it has been some time before any one had seen such a plentiful supply of wild honey Old Bill's many customers were somewhat curious as to where he had tapped the hidden supply of sweets.

To all questions Old Bill replied with a grin that the discovery was due entirely to the efficient work of his tame bear, Jerry.

"I raised Jerry from a cub," said Old Bill, "and, as every one knows, bears simply love wild honey, and I realized at once that if Jerry were properly trained he would be able to trail down all the honey trees on the mountain."

"I had a dickens of a time getting Jerry to work for me, for every time he found a tree he wanted to keep the honey for his own personal use, but by patience and kindness and tact I got him so that now I just take him out in the woods and let him roam around the slopes of the mountains and hardly a day passes that he does not nose out a honey tree."

Old Bill, however, is a canny soul, and to all offers to rent out Jerry for a day's honey hunting he turns a deaf ear. From the amount of honey that Jerry had located for him Old Bill prognosticates a mild winter. Those who are having trouble in filling the coal bin hope that Jerry and Old Bill have hit it right.

RADIO-ACTIVE MUD IS FOUND IN SOUTH LONDON

"South End mud" has been "discovered." A London radiographer and X-ray specialist, Mr. H. J. Monson first went to South End—to use his own words "to investigate the smell"—and found that the "beach" gave off a marsh gas and there was oil in the clay underneath. He has carried out a series of experiments, having been given permission by the council to take away as many samples of the mud as he desired, and is convinced that the much-reviled substance, in the past a nuisance, contains valuable radio-active properties. Photo shows Mr. Monson connecting a wire with a sample of mud. High voltage electric current is used in the experiments.

TORTURED BY PIRATES

Sensational Attack on Vessel by Chinese Sea Robbers.

The story of the sensational attack on a junk by Chinese pirates was brought to Sydney, N. S. W., by the steamer Changsha from Hongkong.

The vessel had discharged and realized on her cargo at Zangzoh, near Shanghai, when she was held up by the pirates. The outlaws of the sea, after a search of the vessel had revealed nothing of value, secured the crew with ropes and proceeded to torture them with burning incense.

A young boatman unable to endure the pain any longer, revealed the whereabouts of the money. The pirates took the cash and left the ship, after stripping it of everything of value.

DAIRY

KEEP DAIRY UTENSILS CLEAN

Bacteria Increase in Astounding Numbers When Conditions Are Right—Must Be Kept Dry.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Because bacteria increase in numbers at such an astounding rate when conditions are favorable, it is necessary not only to kill as many of them as possible in order to keep dairy utensils clean and insure a good product; but utensils must be kept dry, so that the few organisms that are left after sterilization will not multiply greatly. In addition to the proper temperature

All Dairy Utensils Should Be Thoroughly Sterilized Before Use.

It is necessary that moisture be present for these germs to grow, but only a very thin film of water is needed.

It is particularly important that milk cans be thoroughly dried and kept dry until used again, says the United States Department of Agriculture. In addition, they must be protected from contamination with dust, other dirt and flies. Experiments carried on by the department show that in milk cans which were covered before being dried the number of bacteria increased 700 times in 24 hours. An average of seven tests showed that the count increased from 1,111,514 to 775,751,429. Milk put into cans in which the bacteria have been permitted to multiply to such an extent will cause that were dried before being covered.

To secure rapid drying the cans must be sterilized with steam or boiling water. If a sterilizer is used the cans may be left in it until time for them to be used again, but there must be some means of ventilation to carry off the moisture. Cans may be set on a rack to dry, but they should be protected from flies and dust, preferably in a well-screened milk house.

Producing Clean Milk

Factors to be observed in producing good clean milk:

Clean, healthy cows in clean, well lighted and well ventilated quarters.

Purity of pure water for the herd and milkhouses.

Clean utensils, thoroughly washed, steamed and sunned.

Small-top milking pails. Milk with dry hands.

Remove milk from stable as soon as drawn from each cow.

Have a separate milkhous for handling milk and dairy utensils.

Cool milk to 50 degrees F. or lower as soon as drawn.

Keep milk at a low temperature until delivered and deliver regularly.—G. E. Morton, Colorado Dairy Commissioner.

Still Has Much to Accomplish.

During the half-million or more years that man has inhabited the earth he has learned to cultivate only about three hundred species of plants out of more than a hundred thousand that are known to exist.

Southern Rhodesia

The Cecil Rhodes Memorial.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

Entrance of southern Rhodesia into the Union of South Africa now practically arranged, will supply still another parallel between the United States of America and Africa's "United States."

Just as the United States, a generation or so ago, reached out to the west and made its territories one after another into states, so the Union of South Africa is reaching northward—it is in that direction that the course of African empire takes its way—and is incorporating the frontier regions. Technically the Union has had no definite claim on the British colonies protectorates and regions more or less under British control that lie in the north, but it has boasted that it is "heir to all South Africa" and in adding southern Rhodesia it seems to be following the first in a line of its predecessors.

Rhodesia is in many ways in a condition of development comparable to that of some of the western prairie states when they entered our Union. Only trunk line railroads have been constructed for the most part, the close network of the well-developed country is yet to come. Highways, too, are still few and poor. Both production and markets are largely undeveloped, and the farmers and ranchmen necessarily live the somewhat hard and primitive lives of the frontier. In recent years, however, Victoria (capital of southern Rhodesia), Bulawayo, Salisbury and other towns, have developed into modern municipalities with all the conveniences of the western world.

Still other similarities between southern Rhodesia and some portions of the United States lie in physical conditions and climate. The country is a plateau region, dry and hot during the southern summer, but with a reasonable rainfall usually during other portions of the year.

An Empire Owned by a Company.

In one way southern Rhodesia is without parallel in the United States for nothing approaching ownership of an empire by a commercial corporation has ever come up in our history. In fact, in the extent to which such control has gone southern Rhodesia together with northern Rhodesia and adjacent territories, stands alone even in British experience which contains the stirring history of the East India company's exploits in India.

The region, nearly half a million square miles in extent, became, through concessions from a native chief, a royal charter from the British crown, and by conquest virtually the private property of the British South Africa company, of which Cecil Rhodes was the moving spirit. The company, as might be expected of any developmental enterprise, sold land, leased mineral rights and built railroads and other engineering works. But besides all this it actually governed the country, though in late years the imperial government has assumed some measure of control over the company's governmental activities.

The known presence of gold in considerable quantities drew the attention of Rhodes and his associates to southern Rhodesia. The precious metal is scattered all over the country, though only in a limited number of places has its development proved profitable. Some students assert that this is the last source of gold in the days of Solomon—gold which was brought through the Arabian port of Ophir and so came to be called "gold of Ophir." Very extensive ruins of great buildings solidly constructed of carefully hewn granite blocks exist near Victoria and are said to be the forts and temples and workshops of alien (perhaps Phoenician) gold seekers of the remote past. The ruins extend to a point on the Indian ocean, in what is now Portuguese East Africa, from which the gold was probably shipped.

Now a mining, ranching and agricultural country, southern Rhodesia may also have a future as a manufacturing region. On its northern border flows the Zambezi river with its Victoria falls of great volume more than twice the height of Niagara, promising abundant power. Not far from the falls are extensive coal fields.

Status of the Natives.

The natives of southern Rhodesia, numbering some 800,000, are in the anomalous position of having no official political status. They have drifted or like Topsy have "just grown," into their present condition. They have never been formally made British subjects though British control has been extended over the country. They might almost be considered subjects of the British South Africa company. The company has all along laid claim to ownership of the lands on which the natives live except the areas recently set apart as reservations. The white population of the country numbers about 30,000.

Southern Rhodesia is roughly circular with a diameter of about 450 miles. Its entrance will add to the Union an area approximately equal to that of California, second largest state in the United States. The center of southern Rhodesia is about the same distance south of the equator as the City of Mexico is north of that line.

Somewhat further south in Basutoland the "Young Basutos" are uneasy under the rule of their chiefs and are eager to make their government over on something like a European basis. This means little until one learns that Basutoland is a sort of Indian territory of South Africa, that it is probably the most progressive of the native states of the continent, and that to a large extent movements there are accepted as prophetic of developments over the whole of South Africa. British South Africa and the self-governing dominion, the Union of South Africa are not synonymous. Outside the Union—and inside it—are regions not connected governmentally with the Union but administered directly by the British crown. Of these no better example could be found than Basutoland—an area the size of the Kingdom of Belgium entirely surrounded by the provinces or states of the Union but not subject to them.

This region is in effect a gigantic reservation set apart solely for natives and whites are not permitted to own land in it. The few whites in the section are officials, missionaries and traders. A species of communism is in force such as that practiced among primitive peoples or under primitive conditions in many parts of the world. Cattle are pastured on commons and the chiefs allot plots for agricultural use.

Most Enlightened of Natives.

In Basutoland the British have in large measure practiced a hands-off policy. In effect they have merely built a figurative fence around the country, have managed the main machinery of the government, using Basuto laws and customs wherever possible and have left practically all minor matters to the chiefs to manage in their own way under a paramount chief who is a sort of kinglet. Education in Basutoland is almost entirely in the hands of missionaries.

Under British guidance and missionary tutelage the Basutos have forged rapidly ahead to the generally recognized position of the most enlightened group of South African natives. In a century their numbers have grown from 40,000 to nearly half a million; and there are almost as many cattle as people in the country. Physically Basutoland is the Switzerland of South Africa, containing the slopes and some of the summits of the Drakensberg, some of the last reaching an altitude of 11,000 feet.

Horses Fed on Fruit.

In some countries the diet of horses is limited to fruits. Some of the best horses in Egypt are fed mostly on raisins, and they excel in speed and endurance. When figs are ripe in Smyrna horses get them for their regular food, and won't touch hay or oats. Apples are freely fed to horses in Canada, and in Arabia dates take the place of other horse feed. In Tasmania horses eat peaches.

Good Idea.

A storybook that dates to the eighteenth century is as follows: Doctor Johnson once met the village postman trudging along the dusty road on a hot summer afternoon. The postman observed that he had still a mile to walk just to deliver one newspaper. "My goodness!" exclaimed the sympathetic doctor, "I'd never go all that distance for such a trifle. Why don't you send it by post?"

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," croup, or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once. Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, it does the work without the pain.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips and you will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

The only matter of business of special interest was the announcement that the Lowell Club will canvass the Twelfth ward in the tuberculosis seal sale soon to be carried on. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. Basten.

A Christening Party.

J., and on Sunday, November 19, at 5 p. m. there was a christening held, the baby being called Esther, at St. Paul's R. C. Church, the Rev. H. A. Fitzgerald of Kingston, N. Y., performing the ceremony. James Fitzgerald, Jr., being godfather and Anna Healy, sister of Mrs. Fitzgerald, being godmother. After the christening there was a delicious supper served by the newly made grandfather and grandmother.

Those present were the Rev. H. A. Fitzgerald and Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Fitzgerald and son and daughter of Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fitzgerald and son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Marriage Days.

Oh what is so rare as a day in October—for a wedding? Then, if ever, come perfect Indian summer days and Broadway plays; golden sunshine and zippy air. Niagara falls and cocktails—if the bridal couple is fortunate enough to possess a silver and can venture into Canada. But the day is spoiled as far as the bride is concerned, if it rains, remarks a New York Sun writer. It has come down from voodoo times that a rainy wedding day is unlucky. The bride will shed as many tears as drops of rain fall, and so on. There are many fair days in October. October is all right and June is good, but the fates order the bride to shun May. The early English and even the Romans objected to May and some of the couples declare: "The girls are all stark taught that wed in May," and "From the marriage in May all the bairns die and decay," and "Who marries between the sickle and the scythe will never thrive."

Derivation of "Motor."

Whenever the human mind and enterprise conquer a new fact, the lexicon follows closely in the rear to give that fact a name. In case of the motor, as known to mechanical engineering, the word already existed. It was merely applied to the new fact. "Motor" is a derivative of the Latin verb "movere." To move. Its application to an engine operated by electricity, or by gasoline, to make a car or a train, or a boat move is logical. Back of this application, however, is the use of the word motor to designate the person, the power, or the thing that makes objects to move, whether it is a man, a current of water, a jet of steam—in short the prime mover that makes machinery "go."

First London Bridge.

The first stone bridge over the Thames at London was completed in 1900 and built with rows of houses forming a street. On it stood the chapel of St. Thomas of Canterbury. The present bridge, about one hundred feet farther up the river, was designed by John Rennie and built by his sons in 1825-31; length 925 feet, width 65 feet, 56 feet above the river.

Jean "Made Good."

Jean passed her plate with a most respectful request at a time when the relative politeness of son and daughter had been the table discussion. "Don't you hear me peeling, daddy?" she asked.

Between Friends.

"I had a lot of friends once," said Charcoal Bob, nostalgically, "but one of them lent me a dollar, and he told me to get out of his house, and I was not so much as a friend as I am now!"—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

TROY WILL PLAY KINGSTON TONIGHT
Kingston, the undefeated pace-makers of the New York State League, will take the court this evening at the local armory to try and win their eighth straight game of the current season. Troy will be the attraction. Manager Morgenweck will undoubtedly use the same lineup that has been so effective in previous contests. Possibly M. Husta will be in the game as it is not known to what extent Artie Powers is injured.
The Troy aggregation, standing second in the league race, is a quintet composed of players widely known. This is their first appearance here this year. The game is scheduled for 8:30 o'clock. Dancing as usual will follow the game.

MAROON OFFICERS ARE CHOSEN
Corregan and Stumpf Elected Editor-in-Chief and Manager, Respectively—Selection Indicates Good Publication.
Tuesday the senior class of K. H. S. held an important meeting at which time the two chief officers of the Maroon, the annual publication of the school, were elected. The contests were close and when the ballots were all counted it was found that the students' choice for editor-in-chief was Faranac Corregan and business manager Adolph Stumpf. Both of these fellows have distinguished themselves in scholarship and school activities, Stumpf being a member of last year's midwest basketball team and the varsity baseball team, and Corregan a member of the varsity basketball squad. The records of the men chosen indicate that the class of '23 will have an excellent publication, if they get the undivided support of their fellow classmates, which it is taken for granted they will.

Money Back If "Gets-It" Fails
Nothing is so utterly needless as suffering from itching, painful corns.

It is as easy to peel off a corn as to do a bunna. Touch it with "Gets-It" and it is done. For hard corns, soft corns, any corn—or callus. All pain stops instantly and the corn proceeds to fall and soon can be lifted right off. Your money cheerfully refunded if it fails. But it never fails. Costs but a trifle. E. Lawrence & Co., Mfrs.
